

Jason Hood, Architect

Jason Hood is the founder of Hood Architecture, a firm known for its expertise in adaptive reuse and renovation projects. A 1999 graduate of the UNC Charlotte School of Architecture, Jason has dedicated his career to transforming existing buildings into purposeful spaces that honor their history while meeting contemporary needs.

Hood Architecture has developed a strong reputation in the commercial sector, with a particular focus on bar and restaurant design, entertainment venues, and a diverse range of other commercial environments. His work blends creativity, technical skill, and a reflection for architectural heritage, resulting in memorable spaces that elevate both user experience and community value.
